TO RESTRAIN

Louisiana Wants the Yellow Fever Quarantine Declared Off,

INJUNCTION SOUGHT.

Application Made to the Supreme Court of the United States Restraining Texas from Keeping the Quarantine in Force.

Austin, Oct. 11,-State officials were in a flutter all Monday on account of the attitude of Louisiana in regard to the quarantine regulations of Texas Journal. against yallow fever which went into effect on Sept. 1.

In connection with the points at imue it is contended that the quarantine in force by the state of Texas is not against the state of Louisiann, as the telegram from the attorney general of the latter state implies, but is against the city of New Orleans, which is now fever infected and has no reference to any other part of the state and that therefore the state of Louisises has no cause of action against Texas. The board of trade of New Orleans has no means of raising the quarantins if the above contention proves to be correst, for the reason a city cannot bring legal proceedings of any kind against a state, but it must be state vs. state. As before stated, the quarantine is not against Louisiana, so it is difficult to see where the relief sought by New Orleans is to be obtained.

The governor and the state health office are determined that yellow fever shall not enter Texas, which would not only tienp commerce of Texas, but the the Brazos valley in the condition it is left by the memorable flood of this year, would be a hole of pestilence and a yellow fever graveyard, hence the strict quarantine.

Attorney General Smith when seen and asked about the probable result of the injunction said:

"I do not believe the courts will interfere in what is strictly a police regulation. The quarantine is against only local freight from New Orleans, and is not against the state of Louisians. nor through freight, of which large quantities come through Algiera No. I don't believe the injunction will be granted."

Dr. Blunt will accompany Attorney Coneral Smith to Washington Dr. Blunt may possibly be delayed on ac count of sensational reports from Ledbetter that Asiastic cholera prevails in a family at that place and he has gone there to investigate the case under sus-

Another Tangipahoa Murder, New Orleans, Oct. 11.-Tangipahoa feuds have broken out again. A. R. Draugher, one of the law-abiding citzens of the town of Tangipahoa, was shot down and seriously wounded by two of the notorious Gill brothers, Gage and Alonzo. Mr. Drangher, who is a druggist, is also a deputy sheriff and his fearless work in upholding the law brought on him the enmity of the Gills. He went to the depot, when Gage and Alonzo walked up to him, covering him with their pistols, telling him to throw up his hands. This he did, and they searched him, but failed to find his revolver, which he had hidden under his vest. Then they marched him through the streets of the town, subjecting him to the vilest abuse. Finally Mr. Draugher, seeing that they meant to murder him any way, tried to get out his pistol, but no sooner did he take down his hands than both the Gill boys opened fire. He fell to the ground, so riously shot in three places. He may die. The Gill boys escaped and are defying arrest. The parish is in an uproar and Mr. Draugher's friends swear to avenge him. Freight Care Lest. Louisville, Oct. 11. - One thousand freight cars are lost between here and Danver. They were traced as far as Chicago, and it is believed that after leaving they became scattered. Some of them have been located out west and a man has been sout to corral the others.
